Local security guide - Campbelltown NSW 2560 - South-west Sydney, City of Campbelltown

About Campbelltown

Campbelltown is about 50 km south-west of the Sydney CBD.

Campbelltown is the regional centre of the Macarthur region in Sydney's south-west, with Macarthur Square, Campbelltown Mall, the Queen Street shops, Campbelltown Hospital and a Western Sydney University campus. BOCSAR recorded 2,846 criminal incidents in Campbelltown in the year to June 2026 (not counting transport fines and breaches of bail or court orders), down from 3,108 the year before. Theft from shops (383) and malicious damage (281) were the largest groups, and there were 146 thefts from motor vehicles.

Housing and local context

Housing stock: Older brick and weatherboard cottages near Queen Street, 1970s and 1980s brick homes, townhouses and newer apartments near the station.

Campbelltown's older streets near Queen Street have mid-century brick and weatherboard cottages, while most of its houses date from the suburb's growth as a planned satellite city in the 1970s and 1980s. Townhouses and apartments have been built close to the station, Macarthur Square and the hospital. Many homes have a garage or carport and a back yard reached by a side path, and the city centre's shops, medical suites and offices need after-hours alarms and cameras.

Common security concerns in Campbelltown

- Theft from cars at the stations and shopping centres
- Theft from shops around Macarthur Square and Queen Street
- Property damage to cars, fences and shopfronts

Local tip: Leave nothing in the parked car

Commuters leave cars all day at Campbelltown and Macarthur stations and at the shopping centres, and BOCSAR recorded 146 thefts from motor vehicles in the suburb last year. Take bags, laptops, tools and sunglasses with you, never leave a garage remote or house key in the car, and at home park in a locked garage or cover the driveway with a sensor light and camera.
